

Chief Economist's Note

Capital Economics named most accurate equities market forecaster

20th March 2024

Capital Economics has been named the most accurate forecaster of major global stock indices in Reuters polls. The 2023 LSEG StarMine Award was given for forecasting accuracy across 11 equities benchmarks and reflects the breadth and depth of our global coverage of macro and markets.

The award comes as end-2024 S&P 500 forecasts are increasingly revised up towards our 5,500 target as more global institutions factor in the impact of the AI revolution on earnings and valuations.

You can read more about our long-standing view about why we think a bubble in US stocks will continue to inflate over this year and next in this report.

 StarMine award_1

Most accurate forecaster of major global stock indices

For more information about the LSEG StarMine Awards, visit the awards page

Read more

Details

Chief Economist's Note | 20th March 2024

Chief Economist's Note